

FOREST KINDERGARTEN TEACHER WORKSHOP 2019

June 24 to July 12 at Southern Adventist University

Join the groundbreaking movement

Children thrive when they are immersed in nature and natural learning! Forest kindergarten is a type of preschool education held almost exclusively outdoors, guiding children as they play, explore, and learn in a natural environment—regardless of the weather.

Discover more about this groundbreaking movement that is gaining in popularity locally as well as around the world and providing research-based, positive outcomes.

TWO COURSES AVAILABLE

History and Philosophy of Forest Kindergarten – June 24 to July 3

Developing Forest Kindergarten Curriculum – July 4-12

These courses equip teachers with principles that can be incorporated into existing curriculum or form the foundation of a new program.

Taught on Southern's campus and facilitated by Jean Lomino, PhD, director of the Wauhatchie School located at the base of Chattanooga's Lookout Mountain, they can be taken for academic credit on the master's level (three credits for each class) or for professional growth and forest kindergarten certification.

For more information, contact Monty Murdoch, PhD, at 423.236.2984 or mmurdoch@southern.edu.

To apply, visit southern.edu/forestkindergarten.

